26th ANNUAL DULCIMER FESTIVAL – ALL ONLINE

[Longer version]

The Southern California Dulcimer Heritage group invites you to the 26th annual Harvest Festival of Dulcimers on Saturday, September 26, 2020. In addition to the workshops and concert on Saturday, there will be two special 4-hour focus workshops the next day taught by the featured performers and open to other acoustic instruments. Featured artists include: Tina Bergmann, hammered dulcimer virtuoso from Ravenna, Ohio and Neal Hellman, Mountain dulcimer expert from Felton, California. Both musicians will be performing at the 6-8 pm Online Concert with Admission Price. In addition, over a dozen excellent local players will also be teaching, including mountain dulcimer legend Joellen Lapidus and Patti Amelotte, of So Cal hammered dulcimer acclaim.

All of the festival activities will be held online this year because of health concerns and policies. Many musicians have learned how to hold music activities remotely.

As always, there will be a variety of 'Other Workshops' - including ukulele, bodhran (Irish frame drum), ten songs with same chord changes, tinwhistle and a sing-along. Workshops will be taught by various members of the folk music and dulcimer communities in Southern California. Four+ tracks of dulcimer workshops will be given for all levels. You'll find a full range of topics and hands-on classes in the 18 workshops, plus six specialized jams. Friday night jams include a workshop on How to Jam for fretted dulcimers, a mellow jam and an up tempo jam. Saturday afternoon jams feature playing circles/ jams for both hammered dulcimers and fretted dulcimers as well as a finale all instrument Community Jam.

The ticketed online Concert at 6 to 8 PM Pacific Time is also open to the public and will include the festival headliners, Tina Bergmann, hammered dulcimer, with Bryan Thomas on bass, and Neal Hellman, on mountain dulcimer.
